

Pennsylvanians Encouraged to Complete Outdoor Recreation Survey

The state Department of Conservation and Natural Resources (DCNR) Secretary Cindy Adams Dunn is encouraging all Pennsylvanians to share their outdoor interests and activities in a 10-minute online survey that will assist in developing the state's next outdoor recreation plan, which will help guide future recreation funding and policies.

"Five years after the current Pennsylvania Outdoor Recreation Plan was written, recreation interests and trends may be different," Dunn said. "We'd like to know whether walking is still Pennsylvanians favorite outdoor activity? Do people still want trails and on-road bike lanes? These questions will be a part of the foundation for outdoor recreation going forward and we appreciate input from the public."

Township officials are encouraged to complete the survey and to share it with their residents, which is available until May 22. Click -

Pennsylvania Outdoor Recreation Survey \(surveymonkey.com\) to complete the survey, which will be used to help determine how federal recreation funds are directed for the next 5 years.